INEQUALITIES

What Gender Equality and Reduce Inequality

- ◆ Gender equality provides unique perspectives and skill sets in the workplace and an increased available talent pool. Current efforts to address inequality include companies ensuring that hiring and promotions are fair through external performance reviews each year.
- ◆ Reducing Inequality is to give each and everyone of different race, caste, color, gender the equal opportunity and rights in this world.
- ◆ United Nations declared Gender Equality and Reduce Inequality as two different Sustainable Development Goals.

Why we need Gender Equality

- ◆ Gender Equality is needed cause now also women are discriminated against in health, education, political representation, and the work force. Averagely women do three times as much unpaid care than men. Women's work is not given respect and is not considered as work even though it's tougher. Even sometimes women's and girls don't get opportunity to study more and go for jobs and get a child marriage. There's the need for each citizen of any gender to be valued and respected irrespective who and how they are and can become independent and achieve what they wish to do.

Why we need to reduce inequality

- ◆ People around the world face unfair obstacles on their income, gender age, disability, race, caste, or religion. Women in rural areas are three times as likely to die in childbirth than in urban areas. children in the poorest 20% of the population are three times as likely to die before they turn five as children in the richest segment of the populations. Across the globe, women are paid less than men. Inequalities like these can undermine self-esteem and the ability to lead a fulfilling life.
- ◆ Even if we don't face these inequalities, we should care about these cause then we won't be able to make progress towards global sustainable development.

“Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere.
We are caught in an inescapable network of mutuality, tied in a single garment of destiny.
Whatever affects one directly, affects all indirectly”

- Written by Martin Luther King, Jr

How has COVID-19 affected the growth of Gender Equality

- ◆ As the COVID-19 pandemic struck up people can't go to their jobs, and some lost their jobs. We can basically say that the growth of these goals have stopped.
- ◆ As a lot of women mainly in rural can't reach out for opportunities they have to stay at home and do house chores. Staying in their homes they are under a lot of pressure of work and are experiencing Domestic Violence. Economic and social stresses combined with movement restrictions and cramped homes are driving a surge in gender-based violence. The pandemic even affected economically to families as they can't go for jobs and can't earn. Health of people are affected as over 3 billion people lack sanitation and hand washing facilities.

How has COVID-19 affected the growth of Reducing Inequality

- ◆ Higher-paid workers are working from home while lower-paid blue-collar workers typically do not have this option.
- ◆ Lower paid workers are more represented in the sectors that have suspended activities such as hotels, restaurants and tourism services.
- ◆ The pandemic is increasing poverty and inequality between richer countries that can afford to bail out their firms and provide social safety nets, and poorer countries that do not have the capacity to do so.
- ◆ Treatment of some infected people could not have been made because of their economic status.
